

About Sun Yat-sen University

Sun Yat-sen University (www.sysu.edu.cn) is one of the leading comprehensive research universities in China, with academic areas in humanities, social sciences, natural sciences, medical sciences and engineering.

It has about 55,000 students studying on four campuses in Guangzhou and Zhuhai, and nearly 14,000 faculty and staff while owning 40 schools, 5 substantial departments and 8 affiliated hospitals (5 general and 3 specialized ones). At present, it has 31 national-level and 34 provincial-level key disciplines. Remarkable achievements have been made in different domains. By September, 2013, 16 subjects of SYSU ranked the top 1% in the world according to the ESI statistics, namely, mathematics, physics, chemistry, engineering, material science, biology and bio-chemistry, environmental and ecological science, zoology and botany, clinical medicine, pharmacology and toxicology, neuroscience and behavior, molecular biology and genetics, microbiology, agriculture science, computer science and social science. Besides, there is a group of advanced laboratory facilities and scientific research bases in Sun Yat-sen University, including 4 state key laboratories, 2 state specialized labs, 3 state research centers, 4 state-province joint engineering labs, 10 key labs of MOE (Ministry of Education) and 6 key research bases for the humanities and social sciences of MOE.

Benefiting from its location near Hong Kong and Macau and the regional advantage of opening and economic development, the University has become an important base for training high-level talents, scientific research, providing services to society and inheriting cultural traditions.

Sun Yat-sen University has also successfully built international cooperation and exchange relationships with many top universities in the world.
